Canvas Annotations Tool

Student Annotation Tool in Canvas

Canvas Annotations is a recently released assignment type. With this tool, you can share a document, image, presentation, or file for student annotation. Students will be able to add comments, drawings, highlights, and more to the file. This can be a great, visually engaging learning activity. As the instructor, you'll be able to review student annotations.

Here is a guide for using the student annotation tool. Below is a quick video (Time: 2:45 min) demonstration.

Watch on  YouTube

Helpful Tips:

- If you allow student annotation submissions, you must select or upload a file for students to annotate.
- Files used for annotation must be able to be previewed in Canvas. What file types can be previewed. Please click here!

Faculty-Driven Partnerships in Course Building

DIY-READY: We provide you with the template elements you request, and you modify the templates as you see fit in a Canvas sandbox that you can edit and duplicate.

CONSULT-BASED: We listen, and we provide you with thoughtful applications of technology to build meaningful learning opportunities. You determine how much development and 1-1 support is appropriate.

360° SUPPORT: We guide you through a partnership process, and build the course for you in a Canvas sandbox that you can edit and duplicate.

Validated Quality is Built-In

? OSCQR Standard-Compliant:

Our courses meet the standards Online Learning Consortium's official course evaluative rubric. OSCQR (SUNY's Online Course Quality Review Rubric)

? ATS Hallmarks:

We support all modes of teaching with course materials that embody these ATS Themes:

- ? Outcomes (Backward Design),
- ? Learn (UDL and accessibility),
- ? Practice (Low-stakes and iterative assignments),
- ? Apply (Real world and authentic assessments),
- ? Interact (Group projects and student discussions),
- ? Heart (Community and student-centered activities).

ATS Course Materials Are:

Responsive:

We test our designs on mobile devices, and try to make every course element responsive.

Scalable:

Easy-to-duplicate, time-efficient tools and assets that can be distributed across sections, departments, and programs.

Intuitive and User-Friendly:

WYSIWYG (What You See is What You Get); Flat learning curve: Edit, Copy, and Put to Use Right Away.

Activities

Overview

Now that you've explored growth mindset and how to nurture growth mindset in students, think about which low stakes assessments you'd like to add to your course to provide students with extra opportunities for practice. Just like Module 3's activity, we'll use Padlet to share our ideas.

Instructions

1. Explore our low stakes assessment types for online courses document . Think about where students could use more practice in your course. Decide on a low stakes assessment type to try in your course.
2. Click the pink plus button on the bottom right of the below Padlet board. After you click the pink plus button, a text box will appear. Add a title and a short description of how you're going to use a low stakes assessment to provide your students with additional practice. Feel free to add comments, questions, or likes to your colleague's posts.

Where Students Begin

Intended Outcomes

- What must students know and understand?
- What must students be able to do?

Assessments

- What evidence will students provide of their learning?
- How will you know if they're making progress?

Learning Activities

- What activities and materials will give students opportunities to understand and practice the desired knowledge or behavior?
